SUNSETS OF SAMOA

Stamp Issue

Visit any of the stunning locations such as Manase, Lalomanu, Le Lagoto or Sinaiei in Samoa at sunset and your memory will be etched forever. Apia too has brilliant displays of reds, yellows, oranges and vivid pinks and purples.

This scatter, Scattering, phenomena of colour known as Rayleigh was first discovered and named after the international scientist, Lord Rayleigh in 1871. The beauty & majesty of this natural wonder is breathtaking to behold. Those who visit Samoa are especially in awe of the early sunsets and can be seen on the beaches watching the sun go down while still enjoying warm temperatures. All sunset connoisseurs who are aware, watch for the "flash of green" which appears in a clear sky at the point of the sun disappearing. It can also appear in other colours such as blue, yellow or violet.

Samoa Post proudly issues four sunset stamps to demonstrate the magnificent palette of colour seen all over the two islands of Upolu and Savaii. The artist has given these stamps a unique Samoan flavour with intricate patterns framing these breathtaking scenes.
